The Classic Free-Standing Merchandising Display from IMO was the first of its kind in the UK, transforming the wholesale market by giving wholesalers a dedicated space to showcase the most popular, fast-moving control and switchgear products. Now, 45 years on, the Control Centre stand remains a trusted choice, found in over 400 electrical trade counters across the UK—and installations in Australia and the USA.

The IMO Control Centre is available in two formats: a versatile free-standing display or a slatwall configuration, each with two product profiles that can be used together or individually to suit your needs. Each profile includes a curated selection of control and switchgear products, product information, and selection boards—everything needed to start driving sales immediately.

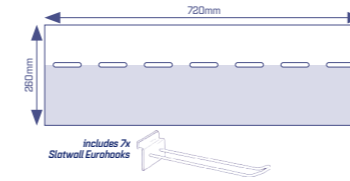

With a proven track record, this is the most effective way to offer your customers the full range of IMO products.
